Dear Miriam:

Thank you for the opportunity to comment upon your forthcoming publication.

The ENCYCLOPEDIA OF JEWISH GENEALOGY is a unique contribution to the history of the Holocaust. The special section on Holocaust research will assist survivors and their children in the process uncovering what happened to their families, where and how they died; and, most importantly, how they lived.

The survivor community owes a great debt of gratitude to the experts in Jewish genealogical research. I only hope that survivors will take advantage of this opportunity and transmit to their children the story of what happened to us. This is the only way we can ensure the memory of what was to future generations.

Sincerely yours,

EWM:ba
