

DEPORTATIONS AND DEATH MARCHES FROM BUKOVINA JUNE-NOVEMBER 1941

The Jews of Bukovina, like those of Bessarabia, were driven eastward to ghettos in Transnistria. Uprooted from more than 100 communities, they, too, were marched away, interned, and then marched off again. Within a year, more than 120,000 had died.

Map and text credits:

Atlas of the Holocaust, rev. ed. by Sir Martin Gilbert (New York: William Morrow, 1993).

Published in Jewish Roots in Ukraine and Moldova and reprinted here with permission from the publisher, Routes to Roots Foundation, Inc.